

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides an integrated VPN/firewall system that uses both hardware (firmware) and software to optimize the efficiency of both VPN and firewall functions. The hardware portions of the VPN and firewall are designed in flexible and scalable layers to permit high-speed processing without sacrificing system security. The software portions are adapted to provide interfacing with hardware components, report and rules management control.